Imagine if you will, at the edge of Paris, in a very fashionable district, is one of France's most popular little boutique hotels owned by a very stylish Parisian Madame. Tall and slender and always elegantly dressed, she has a great passion for her darling hotel, for it tells the story of her life: her many travels and amazing adventures far and wide. Each room is filled with the treasures she has collected and brought back and each holds a special theme. She places and decorates everything with a touch of Zen to enhance a true sense of harmony.

Each evening she is found in her fashionable lounge, champagne glass in hand, and surrounded by the awe-struck guests as she quietly tells of the intriguing tales and adventures she has thus far lived. And so became L'auberge (meaning "The Inn" in French), a place to escape and enjoy a love story of life.
